it would be interesting to see further investigation to what portion of these deaths actually are suicides osteoporosis causes bones to become thin and porous, decreasing bone strength and leading to increased risk of breaking a bone right now i feel pretty disoriented and light-headed i can not wait to read far more from you