when we're done eating indulgently, we wonder, "why did i just do that?" and our brain's search for meaning dutifully finds one and, more often than not, the mind's identified cause is an emotion dutifully finds one and, more often than not, the mind's identified cause is an emotion then they took a step further and invited these ms experts to lead workshops around the country on specific ms-related topics and symptoms.

asymptomatic aneurysm expansion for variable periods of time, but eventually these lesions produce pain,